

BOND ISSUE MAY BOB UP OR DOWN

Council Session Tonight Promises to be Lively With Factional Fights.

TRANSFER ORDINANCE AGAIN.

Assistant City Attorney P. J. Daly Says the City Has a Right to Regulate the Matter.

Outside of Dr. Hyatt's much abused weather prognostication department there promises to be a stormy night at this evening's session of the city council. And while the helpless "weather director" gnashes his teeth as it rains in torrents outside, the mighty giant of the "American" contingent of the council will be breathing thunderbolts and lightning amid the storm of the proposed $600,000 bond issue.

Half a dozen times the bond issue ordinance has come up for action, and as many times has it been laid over for one week. Last Monday night the "members" of the "inner circle" began the history of the repeated delays of the bond issue was being subjected to, and a concerted and desperate effort was made to get the thing going, but was blocked by "commy" Black and a couple of "American" insurgents, abetted by the minority members and the bond issue again went over for another week. Tonight another strong effort will be made to get the ordinance up to a vote, but Black seems inexorable in his opposition, either real or feigned, to an issue of $600,000, and it might be postponed again. Mr. Black is sure to be in the office of the city attorney, and thinks that $600,000 is a little too steep to go in just now, as that sum would bring the city within $25,000 of the limit of indebtedness for sewer and water purposes.

TRANSFER ORDINANCE.

Another interesting development promises to be the matter of the ordinance for the purpose of regulating the giving of transfers by the street car company of this city. The ordinance was introduced last Monday evening and several members of the council were passing it immediately. In view of the hardships which they claimed the street car company had imposed on passengers in making transfers, but the ordinance was adopted postponing consideration of the ordinance for one week to enable the street car company to present its side of the controversy. Thursday evening several representatives of the Utah Light & Railway company appeared before the municipal laws committee and presented the side of the company in such a light that the members were almost convinced that there had been no trouble to amount to anything over the transfer business. The attorney of the company also serenely assured the committee that whatever the council might take in the matter would be void and of no effect, consequently they had just as well let the matter end alone in his opinion.

At the City Attorney P. J. Daly, who prepared the ordinance, has a different view, however, and says that all the rights to regulate the company included in all previous franchises were renewed in the last franchise, and Mr. Daly says the power to regulate the transfer privilege is among them. The debate on the transfer ordinance promises to be interesting and interesting.

Several other matters of minor importance are scheduled to come up for consideration this evening, and altogether the session promises to be highly entertaining.

"Dean's Ointment cured me of eczema that had annoyed me a long time. The cure was permanent."—Hon. E. Matthews, Commissioner Labor Statistics, August, Me.

SACRED MUSIC SERVICE.

The First Congregational auditorium was well filled last evening, on the occasion of the sacred concert given by the quartet and organist complimentary to the members and friends of the church. The program was printed was successfully carried out, and highly enjoyed. The quartet consists of Miss Edna Moore, soprano; Miss Edna Dwyer, contralto; George Rogers, tenor; Claude J. Nettleton, baritone and director; Arthur Shepherd, organist. It was an excellent program well given, fully in sympathy with the character of the day, and giving such satisfaction as to warrant hope and expectation that this concert is but the precursor of others.

WHITEWASHERS BUSY.

Guards Harris and Kast of the city chain gang did not take the prisoners out to work this morning but instead kept them busy at the city jail house cleaning. The walls of the prison and the patrol barn are to receive a new coat of whitewash and all the wood-work will be repainted.

WAR ON TRAMPS.

Police Raid Box Cars and Then Hold Kangaroo Court.

The police are working most energetically to rid the city of hoboes. There can be no doubt as to this statement, because the police themselves say they are. Last night Officer Stains, known as the most graceful roller skater of the department, headed a crusade upon the hoboes. A raid was made on a number of boxcars on Fifth West between Ninth and Tenth South streets, and five Weary Willies ordered to leave the city.

The method employed by the police now to get rid of undesirable "citizens" may not be new but it is certainly effective. Whenever they find a bunch of tramps, one of the officers is delegated the presiding legal light of a kangaroo court. The prisoners are arraigned, and whether they plead guilty or not they are given the choice of 30 days in jail or 20 minutes to shake the dust—on mud—of Salt Lake from their shoes if they have any shoes. This system has proved to be most effective.

CONVOCATION ENDS.

At Saturday afternoon's closing session of the Episcopal convocation, the following officers were chosen: Council of advice, Dean Brewster, Rev. C. E. Perkins, Prof. George M. Marshall and Judge M. L. Ritchie; board of missions, Dean Brewster, vice president; the Rev. C. E. Perkins, J. H. Woodman and L. S. Besley; examining chaplains, Dean Brewster, Rev. C. E. Perkins and Rev.

STELLA BEESLEY.

Champion Speller of Salt Lake City District Schools.

The above is a portrait of Stella Beesley, 14 years old, who "spelled" down a class of 45 eighth grade students from 15 different schools of the city in an old fashioned spelling bee held in the office of the superintendent of schools on Monday, May 18.

From each "A" class of the 15 schools, three of the best spellers were in the contest. A list of 20 words had been selected by Supt. D. H. Christensen and the match was conducted by him. Miss Beesley spelled without a mistake every word in the list, and after this was exhausted words were pronounced her spelling ability and the young lady stood up under the rapid-fire of words until the twister "vermillion" was reached, which she spelled with two

"Ts" and finally went down. Following is the list of words making up the contest: Cyclone, anxious, guardian, counterfeit, atmosphere, scissors, medicine, porcelain, celery arithmetic, attorney, grievous, biscuit, mystery fatigue, cautious, bachelor, vengeance, precede, proceed, recede, concede, succeed and supersede.

Miss Beesley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adelbert Beesley of 6 Pugsley court. She has been pronouncing and spelling all through the grade, and principal H. B. Folsom, of the Washington school, which she has attended until her graduation with the eighth grade this year, is justly proud of his pupil's achievement in the orthographic line.

D. K. Johnstone, Rev. C. E. Perkins was elected treasurer of the convocation. A resolution was passed requesting the bishop and the clergy to visit the cemetery and to hold short services over the graves of a number of church people who recently died.

There was also an evening reception at Roland hall by the Girls' Friendly society, in honor of the convocation, where refreshments were served.

SECOND HOMESTEAD ENTRIES.

Interesting Act Furnished the "News" By Representative Joseph Howell.

Representative Joseph Howell has mailed the "News" an official copy of the act providing for second homestead entries, which will be read with interest by many Utah people. The text of the act is as follows:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That any person who, prior

Fillmore Man Qualifies For Tribune Correspondent

Down in Fillmore, Millard county, they have a citizen with a dedicated purpose to spend the rest of his life eating Mormons and then telling the Salt Lake Tribune how he likes the diet.

Time was when Utah had here a federal judge named Drummond, whose wife wrote a letter to the people, from the states, that would have disgraced and ostracized him in any community. He did just what George M. Velle now proposes to do when the natural thing happened here, and the fight represented by the Tribune had a recruit then, just as the same fight has another now. How it comes about is shown by the following from the Progress-Review of Fillmore, consisting of letters from the man who is going to "write anti-Mormon articles for the Tribune," with comment from the father of a girl on these letters: The Review of May 29 says:

"In last week's issue, we made reference to an angry 'dialogue' between the county clerk and George M. Velle of which we promised to have more to say in our next.

"The county clerk is one of the most peaceable, patient, and conservative young men in our community, but upon learning of the 'dirty devil' having tried to ruin his sister, it was too much for his good nature, and he broke loose. The trouble has been brewing with the Anderson family for some time, but it was only recently that the wickedness of the scoundrel has come to be fully known, and this, not only from the girl's own daughter's statements, but from the fellow's own statements, both verbal and in writing.

"We trusted our little girl with him to learn typewriting, he betrayed our trust, and sought to ruin her with his beastly lust, the particulars of which we will reserve for a more proper time and place. The depth of the fellow's depravity, and the gravity of his offense, might perhaps never have come to our knowledge, if the wicked fool, probably thinking the matter had died, had not taken it into his head to write 'buff letters,' making himself a self-confessed criminal of the lowest type, deserving of more severe punishment than is provided by our statute books. Following are a few samples of his buff letters:

TRIBUTE CORRESPONDENT.

Approved, Feb. 8, 1908.

AMUSEMENTS.

The New Lyric—Saturday afternoon and evening witnessed the formal opening of the Lyric under the new local management, and throngs of people came and went all day. Judging from the general expressions, the camera-telephone will be a success. It is almost incredible to think what human ingenuity and skill have devised in this new machine. The moving pictures are there with all their old distinctness, and besides that, the figures talk and sing. In solos, trios and quartets. Even the motion of the lips agree perfectly with the sound. Added to that the orchestra in front is tuned to the phonograph or gramophone accompaniment, and generally in perfect accord, though there were some lapses on Saturday night.

The bill provides the usual vaudeville turns, with selections from "The Merry Widow," accompanied by the orchestra and the singing as it is seen in the opera. Added to that there is a scene from "Old Kentucky," done in pantomime fashion, so that the old time pictures and the new speaking pictures can be contrasted. Manager John E. Clark was much gratified with the attendance Saturday and Sunday, and the bill will be kept open steadily at 10 and 20 cent rates, there is little doubt that it will continue to draw heavily.

Orpheum—Tonight sees the new bill of headliners go on and witnesses the final week of the vaudeville season: next Monday Martin Beck's big stock company, headed by Katherine, opens for a single week in Clyde Fitch's new play, "The Truth."

Grand—The new bill at this house is entitled "Nellie the Beautiful Cheat Model," and will run through the week with the customary matinees.

MEMORIAL DAY IN SANDY

Governor Cutler and Staff and Other Officials Take Part With G. A. R. In Decoration Day Services.

Decoration day at Sandy City passed off in grand style. At no time in its history has such interest been taken by people who have friends and relatives at rest in the Sandy cemetery. The people had been hard at work cleaning up and putting the cemetery in proper condition for weeks prior to this day, until the cemetery was like a flower garden. Many were the praises of the people in visiting the cemetery; not a grave was overlooked; though no friends or relatives were present, all shared alike until it seemed an appropriate well worth the while of any person to visit it.

Some months ago the mayor and city council of Sandy took the initiative in preparing for an elaborate observance of Decoration day. Invitations to participate in the same were sent to the governor and staff, to the Salt Lake county officials, and the mayor and council of Murray. At 2:15 p. m. a 24-piece band, brought the governor, John C. Cutler, and staff, and the members of the Grand Army of the Republic to Sandy today. The officials of the county and of the neighboring city of Murray and hundreds of people and school children of the county were in waiting at the depot to welcome the visitors. Two large bands were engaged and a well-coursed sweet music. Forty-six young ladies and gentlemen were lined up on each side of the roadway representing the Grand Army of the Republic and the United States. A large flag and went through a regular army flag salute as the governor and visitors passed through the line. A procession half a mile long paraded the principal streets to the ward house, where large tables were set with a generous repast for the visitors. After dinner the people assembled in the ward house and amusement hall, and the following program was carried out at each place:

Opening prayer.....Rev. Jesse Hyde
"America".....Band
Address of Welcome.....Mayor W. W. Wilson
Male Quartet.....R. Larsen, B. Anderson, L. Olsen, H. Burkinshaw
Recitation.....Miss Grace Nickerson
Flag Salute.....Public School Children
"Flag Without a Stain".....Band
Orator of the Day.....Col. M. M. Kaighn
Selection.....Band
Oration.....Rev. G. Carlson
Benediction.....Bishop W. D. Kulbre

It is estimated that fully 3,000 people were present. Standing room in each building was a premium, many not being able to gain admittance. The line of march was formed in the same manner as from the depot to the ward house, where appropriate exercises were rendered and the graves decorated, after which the band again formed and marched to the cemetery. The special train was waiting to take them to Salt Lake City.

SULLIVAN MAY TESTIFY

Richard Deming Asks That His Companion in Crime Be Called As a Witness.

Richard Deming, the desperate convict and companion in crime of murderer Joe Sullivan, was again before Judge Diehl this morning to plead to the charge of attempting to break out of the county jail and for destroying jail property by sawing one of the bars of his cell at the county jail on Jan. 21 last.

Deming was in charge of Deputy Warden "Billy" Davis of the state prison. The convict's hands were cuffed to rings in a strong belt which encircled his body and he was closely watched every second while in the courtroom and to and from the state prison.

He asked that the complaint be again read to him and after listening to it he entered a plea of not guilty. The case was set for preliminary hearing Tuesday the 9th. Deming said:

"I am some witness. I gave the names of Sheriff Emery, Deputy Sheriff Joe Sharp, Jailer Corliss and convict Joe Sullivan. He will try to prove by the latter, it is said, that Sullivan saved the burglar. Sullivan is serving a life sentence and would probably be more than willing to so testify inasmuch as he has nothing to fear and his testimony might save Deming.

It will be remembered, however, that on the occasion of Sullivan's trial in the district court, both Deming and the convicted murderer testified and Deming was the man who saved the bar on the occasion referred to. If Sullivan changes his testimony in this respect for Deming, and the district court will be placed in evidence.

CORONATION SERVICE.

Event Takes Place in New Catholic Cathedral Before Large Audience.

Over 200 boys and girls participated last evening in the services attending the coronation of the image of the Virgin Mary at the new Catholic cathedral. Many people were unable to gain admission to the building. The crowning ceremony was performed by Dorothy May White, who placed a handsome wreath on the head of the statue while the other children who had marched around it placed wreaths at the feet. The vocal soloist was Marguerite Lynch, and all the children sang carols, while Katherine Owens and Eugene Menier recited acts of consecration, the children of St. Ann's orphanage also taking part in the ceremony. An address was made by Rev. W. K. K. who explained the origin and meaning of the ceremony. The speaking was closed by a short and interesting talk and benediction by Bishop Scanlan.

RESURRECTION IS A REALITY

Not Sacrilege to Believe That the Father and Son Are Material Beings.

ETERNAL PROGRESSION.

"As Man Is God Once Was; As God Is Man May Be."

The large congregation that assembled at the tabernacle yesterday afternoon was addressed by Elders Mathoniah Thomas and George Albert Smith. The services were presided over by President John R. Winder and the opening prayer and the benediction were offered by Elders Angus M. Cannon and Joseph S. Wells. The musical part of the exercises consisted of the following selections by the choir: "Re-deemer of Israel" and "He died, the Great Redeemer died," and the congregation joined with the choir in singing the "Doxology."

ELDER M. THOMAS.

Elder Thomas referred to the occasion of Decoration day, and said that it was one of the beautiful things that had its origin in war, a thing anything but beautiful in itself. Had been given to the warning voice of one inspired of the Lord the nation would not today be mourning the death of many thousands of her sons who fell while engaged in internal strife. However, the Lord overruled everything for the best, and preserved the Union, and the Great Redeemer died, and the congregation joined with the choir in singing the "Doxology."

It is meet that a day should be set apart upon which the dead should be especially remembered and honored, and the act of covering the graves of the departed with flowers should be a memorial in the spirit of the occasion, and not become merely an outward form.

The speaker recited the story of Lazarus and the facts concerning his resurrection to life by the Savior, an incident strictly in conformity with spiritual and natural laws. The resurrection of the Savior was a reality, and the body He possessed after he had arisen from the tomb was indeed a material body, Jesus was the key of the resurrection, and in the same manner that He was raised, so will all be brought forth from the grave, to receive again the body they possessed in life.

The Latter-day Saints are criticized for being materialistic in their religious views because they believe that the Father and the Son are beings possessed of material bodies. These principles are part of the gospel and are true, as are the other doctrines pertaining thereto.

ELDER G. A. SMITH.

Elder George Albert Smith spoke briefly, following Elder Thomas. He said that the Latter-day Saints believe in eternal life in its strictest sense; that before man came to earth he lived in the spirit world and there had a spiritual tabernacle, and that when he came to this world his spirit was given a tabernacle composed of earth's elements. At death the body goes back to mother earth, but the spirit, the intelligent never dies, but passes into another sphere of action, some day to be reunited with the once earthly body and to exist eternally.

The Latter-day Saints are not exclusive in their belief and practice. They look upon all men as their brothers and all women as their sisters. All are God's children, and are here because their father's will, and in the hereafter will be rewarded just in the measure that they merit.

To believe that as man is God once was, so that as God is man may be, is not improper, neither can it be called sacrilege. Man has within him the attributes of deity, and as he develops and progresses, he is constantly placing himself in a position to partake of greater things. Men and women are given different talents, and their progress here and hereafter will be measured by the manner in which they make use of them. Man will be held responsible for the light he receives, and salvation is intended for all and will be received by as many as are willing to be saved.

RESPITE FOR CHORN.

Attorney for Bloodthirsty Negro Succeeds in Getting a Continuance.

Jerry Chorn, the negro jockey who, on the night of March 5 last, shot and badly wounded another negro named Henry B. Staten, in a gamblinghouse on Commercial street during a row over a game of cards, was to have been given a preliminary hearing in Judge Diehl's court today, but the matter was continued upon motion of Atty. Newton for the defense. The latter submitted an affidavit to the effect that two material witnesses for the defense were out of the state and that it would prejudice the defendant's chances if they were not present to testify. A continuance was asked for two weeks.

The request was warmly resisted by Asst. County Atty. Myers and Atty. W. R. Hutchinson, associate counsel for the state. After hearing the arguments from both sides, the motion was granted and the case continued until June 16. Chorn is charged with assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder.

DECORATION DAY IN THE STATE

Fittingly Observed in Nearly All Larger Cities and Towns.

Decoration day was fittingly observed in nearly all the larger cities and towns of the state. The forenoon was generally devoted to memorial programs in the public gathering places, followed by exercises at the cemeteries and the decorating of the graves of the beloved dead. Much time was also spent in some places in repairing the graves and repair of the city of the dead. The afternoon was devoted to sports and amusements.

Advance reports have been received of the carrying out of elaborate programs fitting Memorial day, from the following towns and cities: Lehi, Sandy, Milford, Mount Pleasant, Ephraim, Park City, Spanish Fork.
